S&P's NIC FLANNERY SELECTED TO LEADERSHIP DALLAS PROGRAM

DALLAS, TEXAS (June 30, 2011) – The Dallas Regional Chamber recently selected Nic Flannery, Project Manager for Satterfield & Pontikes Construction, Inc. (S&P), to its 2012 class of the Leadership Dallas Program. The flagship program of the Chamber is aimed at developing and increasing the leadership pool for community activities in the Dallas area.

Each year, approximately 55 people are selected to participate in the 10-month Leadership Dallas program. Participants receive in-depth education on critical issues in the community, including criminal justice, education, government and politics, as well as a history of the area, health care, and human services.

“It’s a great achievement for me and for S&P to be represented in this group that historically has rarely included contractors,” said Flannery. “I’m honored to have been selected by Dallas Regional Chamber’s application committee and for having been nominated by S&P.”

Flannery, who is a LEED Accredited Professional, is a 2004 graduate of Purdue University, holding a Bachelor of Science degree in Building Construction Management. In addition to his full-time project management duties at S&P, Flannery serves on the Purdue University Building Construction Management Curriculum Advisory Committee, is a member of the HKS Sustainability Roundtable for the Dallas area, and recently was accepted as a member of TEXO’s Young Constructors Council.

Along with his professional affiliations, Flannery has volunteered his time for numerous community activities, including Phi Sigma Pi National Honor Fraternity, Summit Church and New Horizon Vineyard Church, Habitat for Humanity, U.S. Green Building Council, and as a youth sports soccer coach.

The Dallas Regional Chamber is committed to promoting economic prosperity and is comprised of businesses which represent all facets of the North Texas business community.
