SATTERFIELD & PONTIKES CONSTRUCTION'S DALLAS TEAM WINS AWARD FOR OUTSTANDING CONSTRUCTION

DALLAS - September 10, 2010 – Satterfield & Pontikes Construction, Inc. (S&P) garnered five awards in the recent Texas Construction Best of 2010 competition that recognizes commercial construction and design excellence for projects in Texas and Oklahoma. S&P's Dallas team won an Award of Excellence for its outstanding work on the Health Professions Education Building at the Texas A&M Health Science Center.

The Health Professions Education Building brings together the colleges of medicine and nursing into one shared resource with state-of-the-art instructional environments that include multiple-tiered teaching theatres, a multi-purpose hall and complete student services to support the campus. The 138,000-square-foot instructional facility is the first building on the new Texas A&M Health Science Center campus, a 200-acre consolidated medical training and research complex that aims to bring cutting-edge biomedical research and development to the area.

In addition to the excellent work by S&P's Dallas team, Satterfield & Pontikes Construction was selected for four other awards for outstanding construction:

- NASA JSC LEED Office Facility for Transition – Judges Award for most exceptional project from all 180 Best of 2010 entries as well as Best in Category Award for Best Green Building
- Primary Health Clinic, Fort Sam Houston – Award of Excellence in Health Care
- Cibolo Green Elementary School – Award of Excellence in K-12 Education

“We are very pleased to receive this prestigious recognition,” said George A. Pontikes, Jr., President/CEO of S&P. “It is acknowledgement of outstanding performances by talented and skilled S&P teams and further demonstrates our commitment to delivering exceptional results for our customers.”
